FLINT'S FINE FURNITURE TREATMENT OF NEW WALLS.

The walls of a new house rarely receive proper treatment.

To leave them a staring white for a couple of years until "settled" is intolerable. Kalsomining c"tinting," as its commenders call it in these artistic days) is not only hard in effect, but the coloring must be wholly removed -at no little cost-before permanent hangings can be applied.

Our way is to cover the walls with ingrain paper in any color, giving the softest textile effects, with the added virtue of permitting cracks to be repaired and final decorations applied without removal.

For the last twenty-two years he has made his home in New York, and he sells Indian curiosities for a livelihood it ealso poses as a model and is well-known to a large number of artists, and in this way he became acquainted with Harrie Hosshagen, who paints in oils, minuatures, ivory, and china.

On September 1, there was a curious gathering in Miss Hasshagen's studio. Thunder Cloud was there, and the Rev Henry St. George Young, of Relievue Hospilad, and two witnesses, Otto Wix and Ella Mockridge, both of them artists. The bride, lately Miss Hasshagen, wore a soft white Swies gown, and the groom a frock coat. The dainty little studio had been prettily arranged for the affair, and the couple were made man and wife under the north light beneath which the bride is accustomed to do her work.

After the wedding ceremony the couple went up to the mountains of Sullivan County, and they remained there until last Saturday, when they returned to this city. Thunder Cloud is a handsome redskin. His let black hair fails below his shoulders, and yesterday was fiel at the neck with a Nile green rithom. Otherwise he looked much as other men do. The bride at the time wore a nexilize consteme. The walls of their home were hung with Thunder Cloud's stock in trade and the handlwork of his wife. Altogether they seemed very happy and contented.

FOR STEALING HIS FATHER'S WATCH. Leo Schoenthal, jr., fourteen years old, of No. 1,653 Society by Magistrate Kudlich in Harlem Court yesterday for stealing a gold watch and chain, worth $35, from his father, Leo Schoenthal, sr., who was the complainant against his son. The boy said in court that he needed a suit of clothes and pawned the watch to get it. He told the Magistrate that Henry Dobbler, twenty-one years old, of No. 74 West Henry Dobbler, twenty-one years old, of No. 74 West One-hundred-and-eighteenth-st, had suggested taking the watch and getting the clothes in this manner as a new way of compelling the father to pay for the clothes. He said that the elder Schoenthai would be sure to get the watch out of pawn and say nothing if he didn't "soak it for too much." Dobbler pawned the watch and got 14.50 on it.

Dobbler was arranged for complicity in the crime. He said that the boy had the watch with him when they met and asked him to do the pawning because no broker would take it from him on account of his age. Dobbler said that young Schoenthai told him that he had the permission of his mother to pawn the watch and buy the clothes. Dobbler was held in 1500 for trial.
